The circular economy is not a trend – it is the key to a sustainable and liveable future for our cities and regions. But how can we successfully make the transition from linear to circular thinking in practice? Join us for a discussion!

Together with representatives from cities, municipalities and companies, we will highlight innovative ideas, successful models and concrete solutions for a functioning circular economy.

Highlights of the programme:

- Successful models from practice: How cities and municipalities are successfully implementing the circular economy
- Regional networks: Cooperation as a driver for impact and scaling
- Panel discussion: What political and legal framework conditions does the circular economy need?
- Interactive breakout sessions: Exchange with experts, practitioners and like-minded people

Contribute your perspective, network and join us in shaping the path to a circular future.

The event is free of charge and will take place online in English. It is being organised as part of the EU project RE-INCITE in collaboration with project partners from Italy and Slovenia.

Project presentation

RE-INCITE is a transnational EU project within the framework of the EU's Interreg Alpine Space Programme. It is dedicated to the challenge of establishing and implementing circular economy and circular value creation in the Alpine region. The aim is to strengthen regional authorities in the implementation of circular strategies and to develop new cooperation models between clusters and municipalities.
